This course will explore political, social, and cultural developments in early America from the period of colonial contact through the American Revolution. We will examine the complex cultural interchange and contest for power among European, African and Indian peoples while paying close attention to historiographic developments in the field over the last twenty years. Among the topics the course will explore are the impact of European colonization on indigenous peoples; the creation of an “Atlantic world;” the rise of free and slave labor systems and the evolution of both racial ideology and African-American cultures; the role of religion in colonial life; gender and women’s history; the imperial struggle among competing European nations; and contested meanings of freedom during the era of Revolution.

The following books are required:

Course Outline

As one of the history department’s three foundation courses for Americanist graduate students, this course is designed to provide a broad working knowledge of historiographic developments in early American history as well as exposure to important recent writings that are helping to reshape the field. Students who complete the course may not be experts in early American history, but they should have a reasonably competent grasp of the field and a sound basis upon which to prepare for an early American segment of an MA exam or for the Ph.D. qualifying exams. The reading and writing load is consequently fairly heavy. Weekly assignments average a book and several extra articles (all articles available on JSTOR or other online venues through the UF library catalogue). Students are expected to contribute to weekly discussions. On selected weeks we will hear a report from one student on an additional related reading which will help provide historiographic context to promote lively discussion.

The course will also focus on techniques of writing history. We will examine how authors present issues and link evidence to theory. We will try to identify what makes effective historical writing and compare approaches to scholarship and writing that will help us clarify what kinds of history we aspire to write. A 5-page writing exercise in Week 6 will introduce students to the analysis of primary documents from early America. And for the final assignment, an 18-20 page paper, students will have a choice of writing either a historiographic essay on a selected subfield of early American history or a research paper based on a creative synthesis of original investigation in published or unpublished primary documents, along with critical secondary sources, on a topic chosen in consultation with the instructor.

The course requirements are as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assignment</th>
<th>Percentage</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>18-20 page final paper</td>
<td>60%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1 5-page paper</td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Class participation</td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Schedule

Week 1. Jan. 5. Introduction to early America

Duval, Native Ground

Greer, Mohawk Saint

Sophie White, “Massacre, Mardi Gras, and Torture in Early New Orleans,” William and Mary Quarterly 70 (July 2013), 497-538.

Brett Rushforth, “‘A Little Flesh We Offer You’: The Origins of Indian Slavery in New France,” William and Mary Quarterly 60 (Oct. 2003), 777-808.

Burnard, Planters, Merchants, and Slaves

Edward Rugemer, “The Development of Mastery and Race in the Comprehensive Slave Codes of the Greater Caribbean during the Seventeenth Century,” William and Mary Quarterly 70 (July 2013), 429-58.

Week 5. Feb. 2. Africa and the Atlantic World

Smallwood, Saltwater Slavery

Alejandra Dubcovsky, “The Testimony of Thomas de la Torre, a Spanish Slave,” William and Mary Quarterly 70 (July 2013), 559-79.

Week 6. Feb. 9. Hunting Witches

Norton, In the Devil’s Snare

Writing assignment: Research one accused witch in Salem witchcraft database and write a 5-6 page paper based on trial transcripts. Database is: http://salem.lib.virginia.edu/home.html

Week 7. Feb. 16. Spiritual Revival in Protestant America

Brekus, Sarah Osborn’s World

Week 8. Feb. 23. Off week - preliminary work on projects, meet with instructor

Spring Break Feb. 27 - March 5
Week 9. March 8. Age of Revolutions

Polasky, Revolutions without Borders

Week 10. March 15. Revolution in the Borderlands

Duval, Independence Lost

Week 11. March 22 Slavery and Freedom in an Age of Revolution

Taylor, Internal Enemies

Week 12. March 29. Urban Upheavals

Zabin, Dangerous Economies

Week 13. April 5. Atlantic Emancipations

Scott and Hébrard, Freedom Papers

Week 14. April 12. No class - work on papers

Week 15. April 19. Student presentations

Final papers due Monday, April 25