Ireland & Empire

The primary aim of this course is to examine the place of Ireland in the British Empire and the imperial experiences of the Irish people. We will cover the main themes of Irish history from the Norman invasion to the founding of the Republic, all the while being attuned to the broader imperial context. Ireland was England's first colony; it was also among the first to assert its independence. We will explore English/British methods of conquest and colonization, Irish modes of resistance, and the key phases in the history of Anglo-Irish relations.

While the English and Scottish colonized Ireland, the Irish played an active role in colonizing many other parts of the world. We will examine their contributions to the building of the British Empire as indentured servants, soldiers and officers, merchants, colonial officials, priests, and, of course, migrants. We will see why the British feared the emergence of "New Irelands" overseas. Finally, we will explore the imperial connections between Ireland and other colonies of settlement, the Caribbean, and India.

What you will learn

Students who complete this course will be able to "think historically" about Ireland. This includes:

- conceptualizing and discussing the broad outlines of Irish history
- understanding, analyzing, and discussing "the problem of Ireland and British Empire"
- conducting advanced analysis of primary sources
- reading actively, efficiently, and purposefully via a semester-long "Field Notes" assignment
- identifying and deploying primary and scholarly secondary sources for a research project
- developing historical arguments and expressing them in writing
- collaborating with others in pursuit of historical understanding

What you will need

John Gibney, A Short History of Ireland (Yale University Press, 2017)

Neil Jordan, The Ballad of Lord Edward and Citizen Small (Head of Zeus, 2003)

EUH 3533 Document Collection [available on Canvas] [Note: we will use this almost every day in class, and it will form the basis of much of your writing; I strongly encourage you to print the collection.]

selected articles [available on Canvas]

What you will do

Note: See Canvas for full assignment guidelines and grading criteria.

Map quiz (5%) [Aug 28]

Field Notes (25%) [Sept 6, Oct 11, and Dec 4]

Over the course of the semester, students will keep a notebook [hard copy or electronic] in which they demonstrate their active engagement with the readings, lecture-discussions, activities, and research process.

Activities (15%)

17th c: 1641 depositions (partners) [Sept 13] 18th c: Petitioning the king (small groups) [Oct 4] 19th c: Letters home (partners optional) [Nov 4]

Research Project

Primary source analysis (10%)

Paper proposal, including annotated bibliography (10%)

Final paper (20%)

Engagement (15%)

Your engagement grade will be based on attendance, professionalism (e.g. arriving on time and being fully present during class time), contributions to class discussions and activities, etc. I strongly encourage you to stop by my office hours at least once (and hopefully more!) this semester, even if you'd just like to chat.

Expectations, Policies, Resources

History classes are most rewarding when students interact with the texts, each other, and the instructor on a sustained basis. Readings provide the raw material for class discussion, where much of the learning takes place. Consistent preparation and effective class participation are therefore essential. Students can expect a respectful atmosphere in which to express their opinions.

I welcome students of all backgrounds and perspectives and value what each individual can bring to our common enterprise this semester.

Attendance & makeup policy

Daily attendance is required. Unexcused absences will adversely affect your grade. Consistent tardiness will also impact your engagement grade.

Requirements for class attendance and make-up exams, assignments, and other work in this course are consistent with university policies that can be found in the online catalog at: https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/attendance-policies/

Please keep electronic distractions to a minimum. While you may feel perfectly comfortable multi-tasking in class, it is disturbing to the instructor and to those around you.

Academic Honesty

UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge, which states, "We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code." On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: "On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment." The Honor Code specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. See the DSO, Conduct Code Process.

Accommodations for Students with Disabilities

Students requesting classroom accommodation must first register with the Disability Resource Center by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter to present to the instructor.

Evaluations

Students can complete their evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via this link: https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/students.
